Height Adjustment

- The pull button is to be used for adjusting the height accordingly. The height can be adjusted up to five levels.
- The base of the bassinet can be inclined slightly by adjusting the two sides to different levels. This cannot be done when the bassinet is in sleeper mode.
- To ensure the safety of the infant, the maximum difference between the two sides is two positions. Always ensure that the bassinet is locked into the desired height placing the baby into the bassinet.
- DO NOT adjust the bassinet height while the baby is inside the bassinet.

Co-Sleeper Mode

- Adjust the bassinet height so that the top of the barrier wall is even with the top of the parent mattress. The bassinet must be set at an even height with no incline.
- Attach each of the bed straps to the buckles underneath the bassinet on each leg.
- Wrap each strap around the structure of the bed. If your bed does not have a box spring wrap the straps around the frame. If your bed has a box spring, wrap the straps around the box spring.
- Plug the end of each strap into the open buckles at the bassinet frame and pull the straps tight so that the bassinet is firmly pressed against the bed as shown. There should be little or no movement when finished.
- Make sure the zip-down wall is tucked between the mattress and bassinet and is not folded into the bassinet.
